YEARBOOK EDITORIAL

As high school students, we have the future before us and it is our generation which is to shape the destiny of the world. We have the task of conquering the problems of humanity which have haunted man in the past and which continue to haunt us in the present, now, more than ever before.

As Canadian youth, we can act as a medium through which hatred, famine, fear, and greed can be conquered. Through our education, it is hoped that we have developed high morals and ideals. The knowledge we have acquired can be applied to the problems facing us only if we wish to apply them. We must do so independently, unselfishly, and persistently until these problems have vanished.

This challenge is before us and it is up to us to face the future or suffer the consequences. United we can rise to this challenge, divided we can watch the downfall of mankind. The choice is ours. Which one shall we choose?

Principal's Message

Harry Ainlay is now approaching the end of its second year. During its young history a framework of desirable patterns has been established in the school. Some of those patterns are: The generally good relations between students and teachers; the desire on the part of most students to get good educational value for their time and effort; the enthusiasm that has been generated by the student body in making Harry Ainlay an interesting and pleasant place to live and the desire on the part of many students to take on more responsibility in respect to their own discipline and learning.

Today, students are living in a world of rapid change. For many it must be very confusing. During the past few years there has been a tremendous increase in factual knowledge. This, along with other influences, has produced everchanging and conflicting views on education and curriculum. There have been changes in our concepts of family life and moral values which will for better or worse, have a definite impact on our future. Our present society tends to emphasize more and more the material and the utilitarian. There is evidence that many people would like to break away from what they consider the confining bonds of society. All these things make living today extremely difficult and challenging.

It is fortunate that so many of you in this kaleidoscopic world of ours have been able to develop worthwhile patterns of behaviour; to sort the silver from the dross; to practise the common courtesies of everyday living, to tell the right from the wrong; to enjoy the beauties of nature and the pleasures of reading. These are hopeful signs. May there be enough of you to shape and mould our future society.

To the students who are returning next year keep up the good work. To those who are leaving I would like to wish you on behalf of the staff the best of luck in your new endeavors. It is hoped that you will look back at your stay at Harry Ainlay as a period of growing up and as a place of pleasant memories.

President's Message

Phil Fedorak

Undoubtedly you have all heard the statement, "Ainlay is a unique school." This probably refers to its modern architecture, its unusual courses, and its special facilities.

But to me, Ainlay is unique in another way. No other school, to my knowledge, has been built so strongly on a single theme. Ainlay's Grecian theme started with the team name "Titans". The "Queen" of Ainlay is known as the Naiao. The Titans' mascot is a Grecian warrior. This theme has been strengthened by the literary magazine, OLYMPUS; the newspaper, HARRYGLYPHICS; and the yearbook, TITAN TRADITIONS.

I hope that the students returning to Ainlay next year will continue to build on the Grecian theme and strengthen the Ainlay tradition.

I wish the students who are leaving Ainlay the best of luck in the future and I hope that Ainlay has left you with many happy memories.

It has been my pleasure serving and representing Harry Ainlay during the 1967 - '68 school year and I would like to thank the Administration, the Staff, the Executive, the Board Members, the Club Members, the Room Reps., and the Student Body for their help and co-operation.

A Letter from Thailand

December 4, 1967

The photograph shown here was taken at my apartment in Bangkok on December 3. The fact that we wear short-sleeved shirts, go swimming daily, and that the temperature has not yet fallen below 70°f, illustrate some of the differences to be found in Thailand — the land of perpetual summer.

Christmas in Bangkok will be like mid-July in Edmonton. The trees, grasses, and flowers are in full bloom. The same delicious fruits are always plentiful. And it is hard to realize that you are probably feeling the chilly bite of cold north winds and snow.

Educationally, Thailand is trying to adopt Alberta's composite high school plan. However, at present 90% of the young people never get past Grade X. The number of "Places" available in secondary schools, technical schools, colleges and universities is so limited that there is a tremendous struggle to obtain one. Going to school is considered a real privilege, even though many farm students must paddle miles by boat each day.

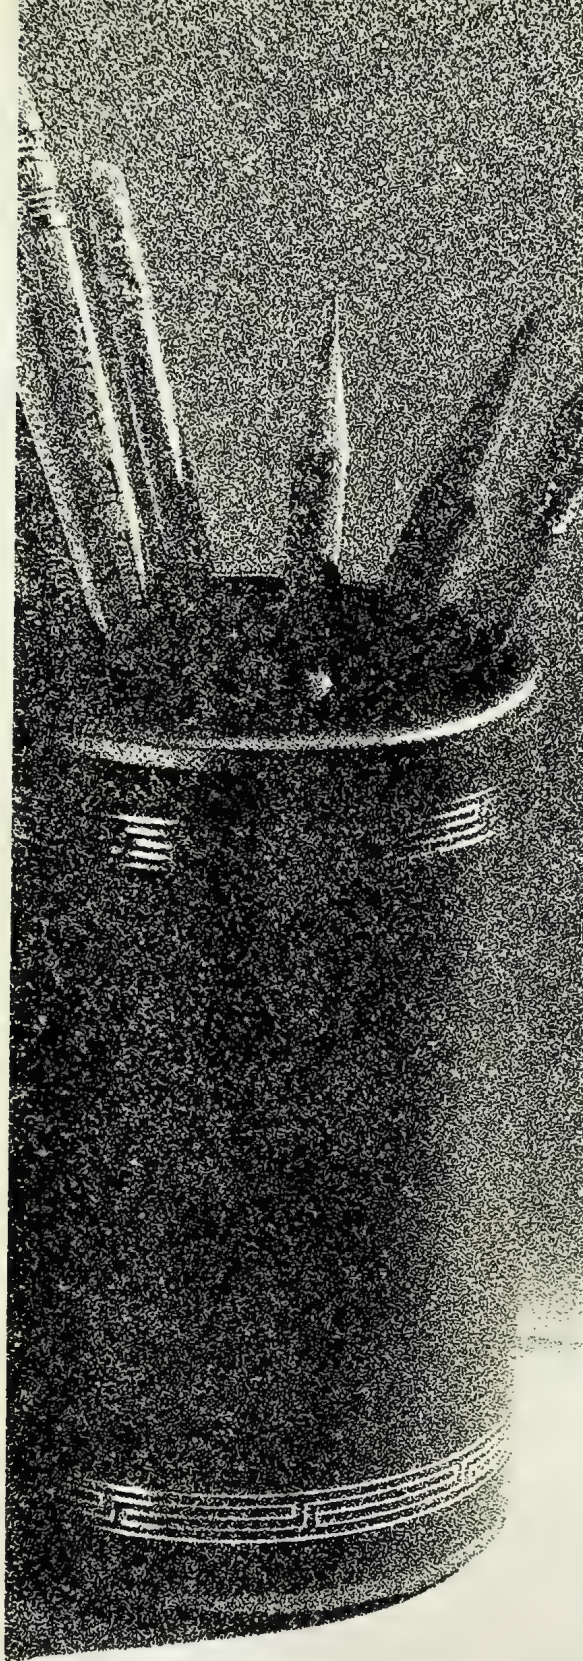

All students, even at university, wear a school uniform that is very neat and attractive. The school-rooms are very bare by our standards — with little more in them than desks and a chalkboard. There is seldom any indoor plumbing and no heating, but there are plenty of open windows for ventilation. To Thais visiting Edmonton, our schools must seem very costly and elaborate.

The Thai people are the happiest I have ever met. Only rarely does one ever see children crying or fighting. A warm smile greets you from everyone. Politeness is practised by old and young alike, and a standard Thai phrase, "Sanuk" can be interpreted to mean "I hope everything is enjoyable."

I am still keenly interested in Harry Ainlay and in all that goes on there. I know Mr. McLean and his staff are giving of their best to further the education of every student. I also have confidence that the students are profiting from their schooling and are maintaining the wonderfully high standard of school morale set by the students in the first year the school operated.

My best wishes go to the staff of The Titan Tradition, and to all the other groups who are contributing towards student government and activities.

Yours sincerely,
Stanley G. Deane

Grad President's Message

This year, as members of the Graduation Class, we will realize the completion of twelve years of secondary education.

Schools have exposed us to knowledge, some amount of which we have absorbed through some sort of voluntary or forced co-operation with our teachers, parents, and classmates. From this co-operative process we have developed the methods and attitudes that will remain to influence us long after most of our accumulated knowledge has been lost. Of course, school has rewarded us all differently. The variety of our values, attitudes, and future plans reflects our individuality, which has to some extent, been created at school.

Ever since elementary school, I have looked on grade twelve as an end in itself. This year has brought a radical change in my perspective; with graduation I anticipate an entirely new and interesting set of future prospects. After high school many of us will be involved in more serious study at universities or technical schools, while others will face the somewhat awesome world of business. But whatever your future plans may be, I would like to extend to all of you, on behalf of the Grad Council, the best of luck and every success after graduation.

Girls' Write-Ups

Senior Girls' Volleyball

This year the senior girls' volleyball team was once again successful in capturing the city title. They played Bonnie Doon in the final and won two consecutive games. During the provincials in Edmonton, the Ainlay girls proceeded into the semi-finals but, unfortunately, lost in a hard-fought battle against Bonnie Doon.

Junior Girls' Volleyball

Volleyball seemed to be Harry Ainlay girls specialty this year! The Junior Girls, also had an excellent season. The girls played in the city finals and although they fought well, the team succeeded in winning only one of the three games. Congratulations to Miss Silk and the team for a successful season.

Senior Girls' Basketball

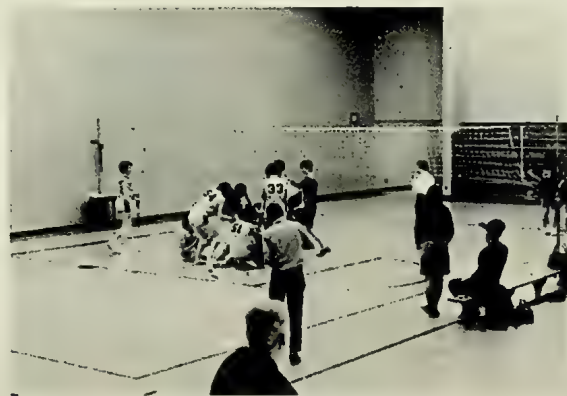

The senior girls' basketball team won four of their six league games. During the league play they were tied for first, for first. They proceeded to the quarter finals but lost out to Ross Sheppard.

Junior Girls' Basketball

The Junior girls' basketball team put up a good effort in honor of the school. After some well-played games, the girls placed third in their league.

Boys' Write-Ups

Senior Boys ' Football

The highlight of the Harry Ainlay senior football season was the convincing 17-0 victory over the Ross Shep T-Birds. The Titans also defeated the MacDonald Marauders in a close 6-4 victory. Though only having a 4 and 2 record the Titans provided a season of entertaining and exciting football. Congratulations go to Brian Towne and Slade Willis for their contributions to the team. A big thanks goes to the coaches Mr. Fleischer and Mr. Webb.

FROSH WEEK

Unlike most schools in the city, Ainlay has adopted the up-to-date method of dealing with frosh. This year from September 11-15, we greeted the Frosh and provided them with an entertaining time. On Monday, each frosh received their Ainlay beanie and members of the executive were introduced. Next day the frosh were given a chance to prove themselves. Representatives from frosh home rooms sang, tugged and strummed their hearts out. Pulsating beats shook the school on Wednesday when everyone enjoyed Ainlay's first sock hop of the new term. Thursday, Ainlayites proved that they are still children at heart when they boarded their tricycles and "dragged" each other around the rotunda. Friday played a fitting climax to frosh week. At noon, twelve Titans represented their fellow frosh in the dimly lit gym. The Titans stood in togas before Zeus and repeated the chant to the great leader. Amid thunder and lightning Zeus accepted all frosh and they were given permission to join other Ainlayites in the bleachers. After school Ainlayites stuffed themselves on the buses and rode to Coronation Park for the first football game of the season. It was back to school at 6:30 p.m. to eat, drink, and be merry. The Frosh dance heightened everyone's spirits and new and old Ainlayites danced the night away.

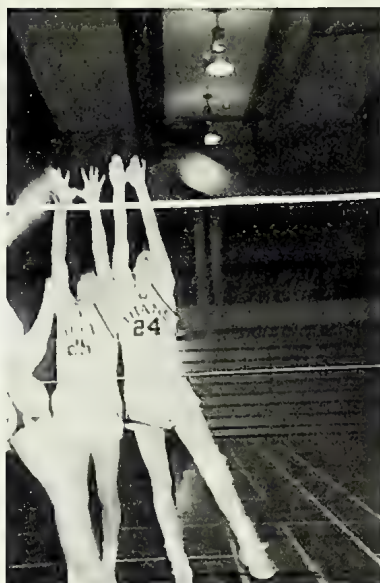

This years Naiad contest started on an unusual day, February 29. To keep with the mood of the day, the first events were leg wrestling and log sawing. Returning to Queenly things, the twenty contestants modelled sports and daytime wear in a fashion show. Monday, the girls jumped and ran scrambling through the obstacle race. Semi-formal wear was the mood of the second fashion show. All the girls were out in their finery. Wednesday, the six finalists were announced. They were Laurie Gould, Val Lynn, Wendy Phillipson, Ellen Reeve, Lynn Sims, and Lindsay Wood. That evening, with members of the student council, the judges and their escorts, the six girls wined and dined and gave short speeches at the Embers. Thursday, was the pie-eating contest and then, with whipped cream on their faces, the girls proceeded to make original hats out of newspaper. The last of the events was the wagon race when the girls were pushed through the halls by strong and hardy students and teacher teams.

Naiad week was culminated by the dance Friday evening - featuring the Brinkmen Brothers. Wendy Phillipson was crowned Queen, with Lynn Sims and Lindsay Wood as Princesses,

I hate to say anything Phil, but did you forget your

Praise the Lord!

Boy now Santa's sure to come.

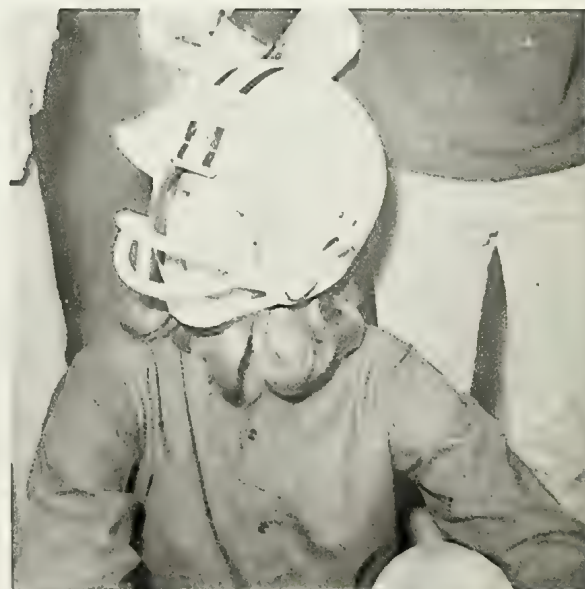

Pattie Cake, Pattie Cake

Sure that's just pop and my name is Elizabeth Taylor.

I'll never eat pie again.

Kiss me you fool!

THE GENERATION GAP

White is black, black is white,
Is there an in between in daylight?
Everything is black in the dark
Or so they say; connotations of Darkness move you this way;
You're only floating with the tide
Why not be different -- come to my side.

I'm wrong -- You're right
Goodbye I'll say Goodnight,
Not going to talk to you or fight.
You know it's not right,
Come on hold on tight
If you believe then write
Tell the world to-night
Don't wait 'til morn.

By then It'll be too late --
Hurry up you'll miss your date
Only hope you ate
Take her out -- You can skate
Over to Mary's for chocolate cake,
They say her Mother can really bake,
I hope so for your sake.

Never can tell when you'll die
Watch what's in the apple pie,
Wash for dinner with a bar of lye
Come on son straighten your tie.
Boys go out for a bottle of rye
Take off your jacket you're about to fry,
That friend of yours sure looks shy.

Better watch him, choose your friends
He's too old! Will this never end!
Keeping up this life long trend
Where's he from? Around the bend?
You'll be there too, if I don't send Now listen here don't you pretend to borrow when you know you lend.

Never lend or a borrower be
But try to keep up to society,

Wash so you don't get fleas
Try to talk about birds and bees
Fall down on bended knees,
Better bake lessons on piano keys
All I got to say is "Gees"!

Can't I live the way I am
Sure if you want I'll call the man,
He'll tell you not to say damn,
When talkin' to your Mother say 'Ma 'am
When studying for an exam don't cram
You're libel to pass that damn exam.
Remember the door's always there don't slam.

Go to Dad, it'll be good for him
He sees your ideas, but kind of dim
But he's against what they call sin.
Looking over the paper you can see the rim
Of the glasses, and the clothes so trim
Reads good books like Huck Finn
Doesn't really care about his kin.

Now who's there left, where to go
Oh I know, a movie show
Can I forget my troubles, I hope so
Too early now to really know.
Only one friend, lots of foes
I can sit here, count my toes
Grab a hanky, blow my nose.

Now I ask what good would that do
About understanding, I haven't a clue
I can count my eyes, I got two.
Maybe I should phone Sue
She always knows what's right or true,
Don't feel sorry for yourself or blue
There's a misplaced adjective, I hardly knew.

Go to school, learn to read
That's what the University really needs,
Cut your hair, throw away those beads
There's only one place your actions will lead
Remember son -- take heed

Get married to any creed
But remember -- not to a hick-seed.

Here comes dark, there goes day
Each going its separate way
Got to rehearse that Shakespeare play,
Come back right after, don't stay,
Remember to do just what I say,
Assemble life on a golden tray
You know there's more in the ground
Than potter's clay.

Have a religion, be like me,
But make sure it's Christianity,
Don't worship the earth or trees
And don't take drugs like L.S.D.
If your sick take three,
My grandma says Naturally
What's good for her is good for me.

Join the army -- kill them dead
Maybe we'll get killed instead,

Make the bullets out of lead
I heard it kills in something I read
I guess that's only if your fed,
It's getting late -- go to bed,
But again, watch out to whom you wed.

We'll let you wed in your own style
Deep inside I can see them smile,
They think they're foolin' me all the while
Sayin', keep all you know on file,
You're sure to forget and that will rile
Me, when I walk behind you down the aisle.

Now I've left -- times will change
Looking back, it's like a drain
A rotten mess, that seems to stain
I won't have another life again
Does it always have to be the same
Quick -- go catch a plane;
If I don't, I'll go insane.

SPRING'S AWAKENING

Icy streams
Trickle down the sides of lofty mountains
From majestic glaciers
Now shrinking 'neath the sun of spring.

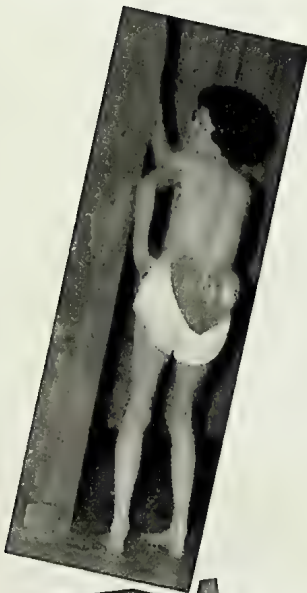

Tender buds,
Sprouting from the twigs of newly awakened trees,
Greet the sun
With expectation and flourishing hopes.

Tiny birds
Voice melodies, with the rising of the sun,
That drift away
Across the green-carpeted hills and misty valleys.

Laughing children
Ramble boisterously across fragrant meadows,
Like the lambs
That frolic in the warmth of the golden sun.

The world awakens to the coming of spring.

MIRACLE OF 10th AVENUE

The year 1980. It was early morning in New York. Only a faint stirring of fresh air rippled through the dense clouds of carbon monoxide over the factories and clogged auto routes. Overhead a swarm of obnoxious chickadees attempted to disturb the symphony of car horns and grinding gears with their raucous "twitter-chirp, twitter-chirp", but fortunately to no avail. All in all, it was a great day to be half alive.

On the streets and highways, long long lines of cars crept into the city. Their drivers had been at the wheel since early morning. By 1980 the long trek suburb to city (for some people as much as two hundred miles) took up to twelve hours. In an attempt to lighten the load of the drivers, automobile manufacturers made such things as coffee percolators and toasters standard features. All down the rows of chrome and aluminum, coffee bubbled and bacon sizzled.

One vital point at which traffic was greatly influenced was the Holland Tunnel under the Bronx River. At this point traffic narrowed from eight lanes to two. Within the tunnel a disaster occurred. An early model car (1975 if I remember correctly) blew a tire and skidded sideways across the two lanes. This caused collisions in both lanes. The congestion was such that no one could back up for fear of hitting the car behind him, neither could he turn for there were street lamps and buildings to block the way. The motorists were trapped in a vast canyon of concrete with one way forward, backward or sideways. All down the lane ribbons of cement and asphalt, traffic ground to a halt.

New York quickly reacted to the situation. The City's finest again took to horseback. The Salvation Army organized mobile, horsedrawn canteens which moved up and down the sidewalks providing succor to the hungry. At least one woman gave birth while on the way to the hospital in a conveyance such as a fruit peddler's cart.

As time passed, people adjusted to this massive traffic tie-up. The simple solution, they took up housekeeping in their cars. Bucket seats converted to cushiony, soft beds. Hot plates and miniature refrigerators plugged onto cigarette lighters. Families moved from the suburbs to join their husbands and fathers. Besides, it was a lot closer to the office now than before.

Later, things began to change. Older people died, babies were born, all in the new environment of the automobile. Suburbs became vast wastelands of wood and plastic. Streetlights were shot out by young boys with slingshots and no one replaced them. Ivy grew over Cadillacs and mums sprouted from the trunks of Volkswagens. After a few generations, the air cleared and the skies became blue, instead of grey, once more. Birds returned and nested in broken headlights, no longer needed. Peace had returned to the urbis maxima.

DOOMSDAY

In World War One, men fought bravely.
 Man to man combat--the only way.
 Lives were ended on fields of battle,
 and casualties suffer, even today.

In World War Two, men fought boldly.
 Land, sea, and sky were filled with strife.
 Millions were killed by bombs and by bullets,
 while millions more were maimed for life.

In World War Three there'll be no fighting.
 A calm, if not peaceful war it'll be.
 The "man in charge" will flick a switch,
 and blow us from here to eternity.

When I saw you standing there
My thoughts dared not think.
Is it possible? Asked me,
Unlikely, said myself.
Him? Asked I.

When I saw you sitting there,
My brain cried out so hard I thought you would hear:
But you didn't

Only my heart heard
And Wept.

When I saw him lying there,
Where icy snow flakes fall on cold pavement
And melt
In warm blood,
My soul, lamenting in its inner self
Could only love
In death.

SCHOOL CHORUS

The school chorus of Harry Ainlay has been very active this year, and contributed much to the cultural programme of the school. The chorus with a membership of about 60 has participated in the Kiwanis Music Festival and school lits. We also enjoyed performing in the Christmas, Night of Music held at the school.

OLYMPUS

Harry Ainlay's Literary Magazine "Olympus '68" is a collection of stories poems, and essays written and illustrated by Harry Ainlay students.

LIBRARY CLUB

Members of the library club carry on much of the operation of the library. They man the circulation desk and help students find materials before classes, during the noon hour and after school. They put out a newsletter, process books, care for periodicals and carry out projects, such as the Book Drive, to improve the library. Other projects such as the selection, purchase processing of a book collection are planned at meetings. There are some social activities.

CAR CLUB

In the car club we hold car washes to earn money for our "kitty." We use the money for our annual Car Rally. This rally was a success last year and we hope this year too. We also have shop privileges, this means that the club members can go to the shop at certain times to work on their auto projects or on their cars.

DRAMA CLUB

The purpose of the Drama Club is to promote interest in dramatic events, both in the city, and the school. Already one play has been out on and many more are in the offing. Student support has been somewhat limited, but we sincerely hope to have a much better year in 1969. We of the Drama Club thank any and all students who supported our activities this year.

HARRY AINLAY STAGE BAND

The Harry Ainlay Stage Band, or H.A.S. Band as they called themselves started in the early fall. This club met every Thursday and Friday noon hour in the Music Room. They played at the Christmas Concerts, Evening of Melody, school "Lits" and during Naiad Week. The 16 members of the group enjoyed a highly successful year and would like to thank Mr. Pauls their conductor, and Mike Baker their president, for the time and effort put forth by them. It is the band's hope that the standards set this year will be surpassed by H.A.S. Bands to come.

MODELLING CLUB

This club was organized in order to have discussion of such things as poise, hair care, make-up and general grooming. These things are discussed at weekly meetings and occasionally a guest speaker is brought in to speak on a special topic. The modelling club also gives a number of fashion shows throughout the year.

JUNIOR ACHIEVEMENT

Junior Achievement is a nationwide program established by business, educational and civic leaders. It organizes groups of high school students into real-life companies of their own. It teaches what it means to own, manage and work for a business enterprise. J.A. is an extracurricular, learn-by-doing activity. It gives boys and girls experience in record keeping, producing and selling goods or service, paying and receiving wages, using capital. Junior Achievement consists of students from all course patterns in schools throughout the city.

SKI CLUB

For the second year, the Harry Ainlay Ski Club has been successfully formed. The focal point of the ski club's activities was a trip to Banff. Under the supervision of Mr. and Mrs. Phipps and Mr. Ham a pleasurable time was enjoyed by all. The ski club wishes to extend our sincere thanks to these chaperones. I am glad to say that there were no mishaps on the slopes to mar the success of the trip. Thanks again to Mr. Ham, our sponsor, for the co-operation he gave us.

INQUISITORS' CLUB

The photo: Mr. Pich (sponsor), most of the Inquisitors, and the club mascot. The Inquisitor's Club dedicated to the advancement of controversy, was formed by the union of last year's political malcontents. Major activities to date (March 1, 1968) have included a placard waving club's day demonstration; talks by Prof. L. Gads, Bruce Brown of the BBB, Mr. Stolee on Red China, Mr. Singh on the Sikh religion, and Mr. Stenberg of the Canadian Communist Party Central Committee on Communism, and lunch-eating.

SCIENCE CLUB

The Science Club has so far been unsuccessful in its attempts to blow up the school, thanks to the efforts of sponsor, Mr. Gaudin. But we keep trying. We also hope to have several projects entered in the Edmonton Regional Science Fair. Last year we won First Prize in the Physics division and had our finalist go to the Canada-Wide Fair in Quebec City.

IN APPRECIATION

I would like to thank all those who have worked on this second edition of the TITAN TRADITION.

Our teacher sponsors, Miss Bentley, Mrs. Lobay, Mr. Hunka, Mr. Klinck, and Mr. Rohrlack, who have given guidance and assistance.

The office staff who have shown interest and co-operation.

The yearbook staff members who have contributed their time and energy to complete this yearbook.

These people have worked to make this edition of the yearbook possible. I am grateful to all of them.
